AFFORDABLE INVESTMENT WITH STYLE

Roadhouse Antiques & Vintage, one of Austin's premiere sources for investment quality antique and vintage merchandise, is showing in Fayetteville, Texas, 26 September through 4 October, during "Antiques on the Square," a part of the renowned Antiques Weekend in Central Texas which also includes shows in Round Top, Warrenton, and surrounding areas.

Roadhouse Antiques & Vintage offers an eclectic assortment of quality merchandise with unique flair and style. Mid-Century modern and Danish style furniture is a feature. Owner, Kevin G Walker, loves the style and is bringing in more from the Mid-West. Walker says, "We find great furniture in Indiana and Ohio to offer Central Texas at affordable prices. Our selection lets you create your own style while making a sound investment."

Roadhouse Antiques & Vintage is a well known vendor at Austin's City Wide Garage Sale, providing unique offerings of vintage clothing, architectural fixtures, advertising, coin-op/arcade games, western Americana, and mid-century modern furniture.

Walker opened his first store in 1977 in the riverboat city of Madison, Indiana. He migrated to Texas in 1983 to work in the Texas Main Street Program while continuing to offer quality antiques & vintage merchandise.

Walker stated, "Antiques have always been solid investments. The combination of quality, craftsmanship, and style are unequaled, evidenced in their lasting character and value. They offer a cost effective alternative to contemporary furnishings with the opportunity for increasing value as you use and enjoy them."

Fayetteville, Texas is located on highway 159 about 8 miles east of La Grange. It is easily accessible from Austin by driving east on highway 71 and north on FM 955. Fayetteville's "Antiques on the Square" is open 9am-9pm September 26 – October 4, with dealers from Texas, Tennessee, and Louisiana.
